Hello~
I am the author of "The Moon at Daybreak", LELE
This is the first time I've greeted you since this series began
This series was both Byeol Sol and my first webtoon,
a challenge webtoon that was selected by Naver
They hired us and so it was very nerve wracking ^^;;;

Our goal was...
NO HIATUS! NEVER LATE!

I only thought of those two things as I drew
I'm proud to say that I kept my promise! ^^

I read every single one of your replies
I treasure them all. I would wait to upload the webtoon each week just to read your clever comments
"The Moon at Daybreak" is made whole when all your replies are added together
I salute all the readers who made "The Moon at Daybreak" fun by writing your replies. They were really, really interesting!

Thank you, Byeol Sol, for working on and drawing this series with incredible quality each episode!
Thank you Naver, who offered a great host to present our webtoon
Thank you as well to the Seoul Culture company and SBA who supported us
And of course, thank you to the readers for reading this webtoon every week!

While I'm the author I can draw too! ^^ (even though I'm not that great at it...) I wanted to draw the characters so I mustered up the courage to draw them this time
The character I like best is Gun Woo.
There were a lot of people who asked me to clothe the baby... so I drew clothes on her here.

Hello,
I am Byeol Sol,
the artist of "The Moon at Daybreak".
I'm feeling a bit gloomy
now that the first season is over.
This was my first webtoon,
so I was really focused and worked hard on it.
As I was doing this, I promised myself that even if I barely make deadlines,
I will never have a hiatus.

Thank you, LELE, the author, who gave me the storyline each week without fail or delay.
Thank you to my editor, Gim, who worried a lot about me.
And above all, thank you to all the readers who read "The Moon at Daybreak".
I always enjoyed reading your replies ^^

Oh! "The Moon at Daybreak" will come out with printed volume copies soon. The first and second volume will come out at the same time. I hope that many of you will read it~
